

BIODIVERSITY + NATURE IN ENERGY AND TRANSPORTATION

2025 Biodiversity + Nature in Energy and Transportation Sponsorship

Thank you for your interest in supporting the 2025 Biodiversity + Nature in Energy and Transportation (BNEAT) conference. Sponsorships play an important part in the success of this inaugural event.

The Value Proposition: Why is BNEAT Needed?

The 2025 BNEAT conference addresses important questions and collaboration gaps in addressing nature-based sustainability for energy and transportation infrastructure. By convening experts and practitioners, this conference will address:

- (1) Communicating biodiversity benefits using the latest research and data,
- (2) Making sustainability and nature resiliency relevant to your business operations by leveraging infrastructure vegetation management activities, and
- (3) Connecting corporate sustainability, environmental, and vegetation managers for improved tracking and reporting.

Attendees will come away with a greater understanding of how nature affects their business and the day-to-day operations of energy and transportation infrastructure, how to pursue being “nature-positive,” best practices for integrating and communicating about evidence-based sustainability practices in vegetation management, and how to improve their sustainability tracking and reporting efforts.

Target Audiences

- Corporate sustainability managers
- Vegetation managers
- Environmental managers
- Technical specialists involved in land management and monitoring
- Researchers focused on nature-based research and reporting
- Federal and state agencies
